THE CARRIERS ADDRESS.

Ho, for Christmas fun, boys-Ho, for Christmas glee; Shoot the Christmas gun, boys,

Deck the Christmas tree; Toss your hats in air, boys, Toss them high and free : Of forget the old years care,

And join the jubilee. In the lofty belfry, Let the old bell swing ; In the swelling chorus,

Let us shout and sing , Let the desfining music, Make the welkin ring; O! this is the day for joy,

And merry banqueting. Rub your rifles, bright, boys, Loose the whining pack; Take your stand to-night, boys, On the fox's track;

Through the ringing woodlands, List to the yelping hounds; O'er the hills, and through the

The panting red fox bounds.

Tumble the wild "blue wing," boys, Skimming through the air; Make the bullets sing, boys, Brain the squatting hare; Flush the huddled quail gang, Wing them left and right;

O, wake the echoes with the clang Of arms, from morn till night. But while you ring the bells, boys,

While you toss your hats, While you chase the red fox, O'er the hills and flats,

While you shoot the "blue wing," And loudly shout for joy; I pray you, loose your old purse

And pay your carrier boy. Fling him a shining dollar, Or only a shining half; Or you, with the standing collar, And boots of finest calf. Hand him out a V, sir, And all his woes destroy,
